Chicago, May 26.—(U.P.)—Four men were killed today when the Chicago Daily News twin-motored Bellanca airplane crashed two miles north of Glen Ellyn, a western suburb.

The dead were: Shirley Short, pilot and famous flier; Richard K. Peck, co-pilot; Lewis S. Rice, radio operator and Robert U. Gormley, mechanic.

The plane was wrecked and apparently the crew was killed instantly.

The plane was making a series of test flights over a measured course between Curtiss-Reynolds airport and Seneca, Ill. It had completed one round trip and was on the first lap of the second when the crash occurred.

Both motors of the biplane died simultaneously as it crossed Highway 74 and the ship crashed into a field. The scene of the accident is about 25 miles west of Chicago and two miles north of Wheaton.

Witnesses were unable to account for the crash. The plane fell suddenly without warning.

Parts of the ship, named the Blue Streak for the Daily News late editions, were found 1,500 feet away, including what appeared to be the fabric of a broken wing.

The planes descent was so sudden that although two of the occupants wore parachutes neither had opportunity to use them.

The bodies of the crew were mangled and were taken to the camp mortuary at Wheaton.

The Wheaton fire department was called to the scene but fire did not break out.

The movement to back Davis as national committeeman was said to have resulted from a "definite insurgent movement among republicans of the progressive group to oust the present leadership of the party."

Claude H. Mackenzie, Gaylord, is present national committeeman.

THAT VIVIAN GORDON, BROAD- WAY RACKETEER, MET HER END THAT WAY

NEW YORK POLICE REFUSE TO GIVE OUT NAME OF SUS- PECTED MAN

New York, May 26.—(U.P.)—Detectives announced today they had reason to believe a wealthy man, now under surveillance, employed thugs to kill Vivian Gordon, Broadway racketeer.

Refusing to give the man's name, police said they were working on the theory Miss Gordon had blackmailed or threatened to blackmail him. Harry Stein and Samuel Greenberg were indicted yesterday by a Bronx county grand jury on charges of committing the murder.

Harry Schlitten, a Newark taxicab driver, confessed he drove the car in which he alleged two men strangled Miss Gordon to death with a rope and hurled her body from the car in Van Courtlandt park. The woman had been robbed of a fur coat and all of her jewelry.

Police said they hoped to prove that Stein and Greenberg, both of whom have long criminal records, were hired by the wealthy man to slay Miss Gordon. Police already have questioned this man, they said, and expect to make an arrest soon.

Mrs. Madeline Tully, proprietor of a Riverside Drive rooming house, a new figure in the case, was held in $25,000 bond as a material witness after she refused to testify before the grand jury. District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin said he believes Stein, who boarded at her house, gave Mrs. Tully the lining from Miss Gordon's coat. He believes also she may know where Miss Gordon's jewelry was disposed of.

Old Man Tortured by 2 Youths Bent on Theft, Thrust His Feet Into Burning Coals of Stove

GANGRENE NOW POSSIBLE IN CASE OF THEODORE SONS

2 BROTHERS LIVED ON FARM NEAR CHASKA, KEPT LIFE'S SAVINGS AT HOME

IF THEODORE SONS DIES, MUR- DER CHARGES WILL BE FILED

Chaska, Minn., May 26.—(U.P.)—Gangrene which has set in the burned feet of Theodore Sons, 60, who was tortured by two youths when he refused to reveal the hiding place of his life's savings, may result in his death, his doctor said today.

County Attorney J. J. Fahey held up the filing of charges today pending the outcome of Theodore's injuries. Phillip Sons, 50, a brother, who was beaten by the youths will recover. If the elder Sons dies, Fahey will file murder charges against Wilbert Korissen, 20, and Ben Haus, 24, both of Cologne, he said today. The youths have confessed to the robbery attempt, Fahey said.

Charges of assault and robbery will be filed against the youths if Theodore recovers. Dr. E. J. Eklund of Norwood was treating both brothers. According to the story pieced together by the county attorney and Sheriff Frank Trende from the confessions of the youths and the story told by the brothers, Korissen and Haus planned the robbery in detail.

On Thursday night they stole an automobile near their home and drove to the Sons home. Producing a pistol and a rifle, they sought to force the brothers to reveal the hiding place of their money by threats of death.

It was known that the Sons brothers would have nothing to do with banks and were reported to be wealthy. When the brothers refused to admit they had any money on the farm, the youths beat Theodore with their guns. A dog which attacked the youths was shot. Korissen fired his gun so as just to miss Theodore on several occasions, Fahey said.

After about an hour, the youths carried Theodore to a stove and threatened to burn him if he did not "come across." When he still refused to give up his money, they thrust his feet into the burning coals.

After they drove away, Phillip walked to a neighbor's home to call a physician. A special grand jury will be called to hear charges against the youths, Fahey said. If indicted they will be tried at the June term of district court. Both Korissen and Haus are being held in the county jail, unable to raise $10,000 bond.

RESTORATION OF FEDERAL SALES TAX ON CARS

SECRETARY OF TREASURY MEL- LON AND HIS EXPERTS IN CONFERENCE

FORMULATING LONG-TIME PRO- GRAM TO MEET DWINDLING REVENUES

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 26.—A federal tax on gasoline and restoration of the federal sales tax on automobiles are being considered by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his experts, in formulating a long-time program to meet dwindling revenues and increasing cost of government.

Mellon is planning to submit his program to congress in 1932, after the elections.

He realizes that neither party would sponsor a tax increase on the basis of a national election unless it is imperative, and is leaving the initiative for early presentation to President Hoover and congressional leaders.

The proposals for the new tax plan, while yet general and vague and put out as a "feeler," already have stirred up controversy among members of congress, the burden of criticism being directed at his suggestion that more people should pay income taxes, and thus the burden on the average taxpayer be increased. This would be done by reducing or eliminating present exemptions.

"In my judgment, the lowering of the exemptions and the taxing of the smaller incomes is on the same principle as the lowering of wages," said Senator Borah, republican, Idaho. "Both would have the effect of reducing still further the purchasing power of the great body of people."

Most members of congress are opposed to any tax increase, but Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, is an exception. Taxes must be increased, he said, to balance the government's budget, but he urges that the increases be applied to the wealthy.

Couzens, many times a millionaire, recommended a gift tax, an increase on the estate tax, and increased surtaxes on the rich.

"There is no sound reason in economics or finance why the graduated surtax should stop at $100,000," he said. "Prior to the 1926 revenue act graduated surtaxes continued upward to incomes of $1,000,000, but for some unaccountable reason in the 1926 act graduated surtaxes did not rise on increased incomes above $100,000."

Pointing to the rising cost of government, Senator Hull, democrat, Tennessee, said "the best taxation is adequate retrenchment." He criticized Mellon for inaccuracy in forecasting, saying that the treasury had predicted a surplus of $180,000,000 for the present fiscal year, with the likelihood there will be a deficit of a billion dollars.

Thief Leaves Dollar Bill for Stolen License Plates

INES DISRUPTED IN STORM FORCES STANDSTILL HERE

ELECTRICITY IN CITY IS OFF THREE HOURS AND FORTY- FIVE MINUTES

OTHER LOCALITIES NOT AF- FECTED; NO OTHER DAMAGE IN AREA LEARNED

Business establishments in Brainerd dependent on electricity for operation were at a standstill for three hours and forty-five minutes this afternoon due to lightning disrupting power service.

The city of Brainerd as a whole was without electricity from 3:30 until 7:15 P. M.

The Northern Pacific railway shops and the Northwest Paper Mill continued to operate as their independent commercial power plants were not affected.

The city was deprived of electricity when lightning struck and burned out entirely the Riverton switchrack at the Riverton station. The other power lines of the Minnesota Power & Light Company which supplies Brainerd with electricity, went out of commission at practically the same time when the storm hit the main line leading from Pillager and Little Falls. Crews of men were immediately put to work to repair the damage.

The water and light department made connections with The Northwest Paper Company switchboard at 6 P. M. but the load was so heavy that the fuse blew out at the switchboard. This repaired, light was furnished Northeast and Southeast Brainerd. The business section, however, continued dark and no power was available.

No other damage than that to electricity of the city could be learned, except a few trees being felled.

The towns of Crosby and Ironton rode the storm with their power systems operating on schedule.

The shutdown due to lack of electric power caused considerable financial losses to business establishments in Brainerd. The water and light department was besieged with hundreds of calls from Brainerd patrons for electricity.

No injuries were reported in the storm throughout the Brainerd area. The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company reported that their lines in the vicinity of Brainerd were not affected. Their service continued normal.

Police officers were called to the banks of Brainerd for protection when the lights went out. Many people were waiting in the banks at the time.

The dispatch was one of a number of business establishments affected by the storm. Lack of power delayed operation of linotypes and the press, forcing the paper to come out late.

Farmers and others appreciated the rainfall which measured 0.47 inch.

Heavy hail fell in Brainerd and the countryside, about 3:30 P. M.

A heavy lightning bolt struck at Staples at 5 P. M., but no report of damage was received.

Rain and hail fell at Fergus Falls and rain was heavy on the Fergus Falls branch line of the Northern Pacific railway.

STATE TESTIMONY IS ASSAILED IN KIRKLAND TRIAL

DEFENSE CALLS 2 WITNESSES BARTON, SHIRK, "DIRTY, FILTHY RATS"

CHARGES TESTIMONY GIVEN SO TWO HOPE TO ESCAPE TRIAL

Valparaiso, Ind., May 26.—(U.P.)—The testimony Henry Shirk and Paul Barton gave when they became state's witnesses in Virgil Kirkland's second trial on charges of murdering Arlene Draves was assailed by defense attorneys today.

Ronald Oldham, Chicago attorney who presented the defense's closing arguments, declared that Barton and Shirk, who testified Kirkland led criminal attacks on Arlene during a Gary liquor party, were "dirty, filthy rats."

Prosecutors John Underwood and Robert G. Estil, will present the state's final summation, after which Judge Grant Crumpacker had a list of 60 instructions to read. Kirkland's fate was expected to go to the jury around 5 p. m.

He charged the testimony of Barton and Shirk was the result of a deal by which the youths hoped to escape trial on the same charges as Kirkland, with whom they were indicted.

The prosecution denied that Barton and Shirk bargained their freedom for testifying as state's witnesses.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 26.—Three workers were killed and five wounded in a clash between communists and police at the Hungarian village of Kosuth, near Bratislava, reports said today.

NEW YORK POLICE SAY BRIDGETTS ADMITS KILLING

THAT HE MURDERED DR. JO- SEPH T. LOUGHLIN, BROOK- LYN, IN A PISTOL DUEL

WORN FROM LOSS OF BLOOD, DUE TO WOUND, HE WAS TIRED OF HIDING

New York, May 26.—(U.P.)—Howard Vincent Bridgetts, sought by police for three days, walked into a police station today and admitted, police said, the slaying of Dr. Joseph T. Loughlin, a Brooklyn surgeon, in a pistol duel in the dunes of Marine park.

Worn from the loss of blood, due to a wound in the left arm, Bridgetts told police he was tired of hiding and wanted to "get it off my chest." He said he had spent the time between Saturday night, when Dr. Loughlin was slain, and the time he surrendered, in attending movie shows and wandering the streets.

He said he knew he was comparatively safe from detection as long as he avoided hospitals to get medical attention for the wound in his arm.

Bridgetts, 29, the son of a wealthy commission merchant, was accompanied to police headquarters by his attorney, George Leisner. Questioned by Lieut. Peter Bree, Bridgetts readily admitted the shooting, police said, and claimed he shot the surgeon in self defense, according to police.

He placed a .32 calibre automatic pistol on the desk and said he had fired two shots from it. He also produced a black Gladstone bag, which contained a suit soaked with blood, and overcoat also spotted with blood. His statements confused police when he said that although he had shot in self defense, Dr. Loughlin had no gun.

Questioned further, Bridgetts said that he would make no other statement on the advice of his attorney. He refused to say how he received the wound in the left arm.

Dr. Loughlin's body was found in a sand fill-in in Marine park, Brooklyn, early Sunday. He had been shot twice, once under the right arm and again through the right temple. This indicated, police said, that he had his right hand raised as though to fire at an opponent in a duel. Two stakes had been placed in the ground, marking off approximately 20 paces. The surgeon's body was found near one of the stakes, and a brown felt hat, apparently the property of his opponent, was lying near the other marker.

Mrs. Loughlin further bore out the duel theory when she told police that she and Dr. Loughlin had been estranged and that her husband blamed Bridgetts, a second cousin and at one time a close friend, of telling her of clandestine affairs the surgeon alleged had had with other women.

Oceans' Immensity

When the brothers refused to admit they had any money on the farm, the youths beat Theodore with their guns. A dog which attacked the youths was shot. Korissen fired his gun so as just to miss Theodore on several occasions, Fahey said.

After about an hour, the youths carried Theodore to a stove and threatened to burn him if he did not "come across." When he still refused to give up his money, they thrust his feet into the burning coals.

After they drove away, Phillip walked to a neighbor's home to call a physician.

A special grand jury will be called to hear charges against the youths, Fahey said. If indicted they will be tried at the June term of district court. Both Korissen and Haus are bang held in the county jail, unable to raise $10,000 bond.

ALWAYS BOUND TO BE A NEXT WAR, SAYS MAJ. GEN. BUTLER

Chicago, May 26.—(U.P.)—Major General Smedley D. Butler told a Rotary club luncheon today this nation should be prepared because "there is bound to be a next war as long as men are what they are and defend women."

He said that "soldiers don't make wars—they end them."

"If we can delay war five days by signing 500 treaties, then let's sign as fast as we can," Butler said. "We should do all in our power to prevent war, but we should also be well equipped to stop it."

TWO MEN CAPTURED IN VAULT OF HIGH SCHOOL

Sioux City, Ia., May 26.—(U.P.)—Two men were captured in the vault of Central high school today after they had attempted to shoot their way through a cordon of 20 policemen.

The men, Robert Dally and Joe Rubin, gained entrance to the vault by knocking off the combination dial. They were discovered by the night watchman. His alarm brought police and detectives, who surrounded the building.

When ordered to surrender, the bandits opened fire but surrendered when police shot at them from every angle. None was injured.

RESCUE WORKERS DIG INTO THE SMOULDERING RUINS OF THE PITS

38 BODIES RECOVERED, 8 MINERS RESCUED IN NIGHT DUE OF INJURIES

Madras, India, May 26.—(U.P.)—Casualties in the Kolar gold mine fire in Mysore state increased today, as rescue workers dug into the smouldering ruins of the pits.

Thirty-eight bodies so far had been recovered. Eight miners rescued during the night were reported to have died of their injuries. The blaze, it was feared, would prove one of the worst mine disasters in India in years.

Thirty others, still entombed, were believed dead. Rescue workers continued searching the devastated pits. Little hope for the entombed men was held by persons in charge of the rescue work.

Weeping women, children and dependents gathered at the pithead, hysterically searching for relatives.

RESTORATION OF FEDERAL SALES TAX ON CARS

SECRETARY OF TREASURY MELLON AND HIS EXPERTS IN CONFERENCE

FORMULATING LONG-TIME PROGRAM TO MEET DWINDLING REVENUES

By THOMAS L. STOKES (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 26.—A federal tax on gasoline and restoration of the federal sales tax on automobiles are being considered by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his experts, in formulating a long-time program to meet dwindling revenues and increasing cost of government.

Mellon is planning to submit his program to congress in 1932, after the elections.

He realizes that neither party would sponsor a tax increase on the basis of a national election unless it is imperative, and is leaving the initiative for early presentation to President Hoover and congressional leaders.

The proposals for the new tax plan, while yet general and vague and put out as a "feeler," already have stirred up controversy among members of congress, the burden of criticism being directed at his suggestion that more people should pay income taxes, and thus the burden on the average taxpayer be increased. This would be done by reducing or eliminating present exemptions.

"In my judgment, the lowering of the exemptions and the taxing of the smaller incomes is on the same principle as the lowering of wages," said Senator Borah, republican, Idaho. "Both would have the effect of reducing still further the purchasing power of the great body of people."

Most members of congress are opposed to any tax increase, but Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, is an exception. Taxes must be increased, he said, to balance the government's budget, but he urges that the increases be applied to the wealthy.

Couzens, many times a millionaire, recommended a gift tax, an increase on the estate tax, and increased surtaxes on the rich.

"There is no sound reason in economics or finance why the graduated surtax should stop at $100,000," he said. "Prior to the 1926 revenue act graduated surtaxes continued upward to incomes of $1,000,000, but for some unaccountable reason in the 1926 act graduated surtaxes did not rise on increased incomes above $100,000."

Pointing to the rising cost of government, Senator Hull, democrat, Tennessee, said "the best taxation is adequate retrenchment." He criticized Mellon for inaccuracy in forecasting, saying that the treasury had predicted a surplus of $180,000,000 for the present fiscal year, with the likelihood there will be a deficit of a billion dollars.

Magazine Clue Jails Suspect

Chance reading of a detective story magazine by San Francisco police officers landed George W. E. Perry, 40, alias Frank J. Moran, in jail as a suspect in the murder of Mrs. Cora B. Hackett at Lac Du Flambeau, Wis., last year. Perry is shown above pointing to a scar near right eye as Inspector James Johnson questions him. The scar helped police to identify Perry following publication of his picture and a synopsis of the Wisconsin crime in the magazine.

NEW YORK POLICE SAY BRIDGETTS ADMITS KILLING

THAT HE MURDERED DR. JOSEPH T. LOUGHLIN, BROOKLYN, IN A PISTOL DUEL

WORN FROM LOSS OF BLOOD, DUE TO WOUND, HE WAS TIRED OF HIDING

New York, May 26.—(U.P.)—Howard Vincent Bridgetts, sought by police for three days, walked into a police station today and admitted, police said, the slaying of Dr. Joseph T. Loughlin, a Brooklyn surgeon, in a pistol duel in the dunes of Marine park.

Worn from the loss of blood, due to a wound in the left arm, Bridgetts told police he was tired of hiding and wanted to "get it off my chest." He said he had spent the time between Saturday night, when Dr. Loughlin was slain, and the time he surrendered, in attending movie shows and wandering the streets.

He said he knew he was comparatively safe from detection as long as he avoided hospitals to get medical attention for the wound in his arm. Bridgetts, 29, the son of a wealthy commission merchant, was accompanied to police headquarters by his attorney, George Leasure. Questioned by Lieut. Peter Bree, Bridgetts readily admitted the shooting, police said, and claimed he shot the surgeon in self defense, according to police.

He placed a .32 calibre automatic pistol on the desk and said he had fired two shots from it. He also produced a black Gladstone bag, which contained a suit soaked with blood and overcoat also spotted with blood.

His statements confused police when he said that although he had shot in self defense, Dr. Loughlin had no gun.

Questioned further, Bridgetts said that he would make no other statement on the advice of his attorney. He refused to say how he received the wound in the left arm.

Dr. Loughlin's body was found in a sand fill-in in Marine park, Brooklyn, early Sunday. He had been shot twice, once under the right arm and again through the right temple. This indicated, police said, that he had his right hand raised as though to fire at an opponent in a duel. Two stakes had been placed in the ground, marking off approximately 20 paces. The surgeon's body was found near one of the stakes, and a brown felt hat, apparently the property of his opponent, was lying near the other marker.

Mrs. Loughlin further bore out the duel theory when she told police that she and Dr. Loughlin had been estranged and that her husband blamed Bridgetts, a second cousin and at one time a close friend, of telling her of clandestine affairs the surgeon alleged had had with other women.

INES DISRUPTED IN STORM FORCES STANDSTILL HERE

ELECTRICITY IN CITY IS OFF THREE HOURS AND FORTY-FIVE MINUTES

OTHER LOCALITIES NOT AFFECTED; NO OTHER DAMAGE IN AREA LEARNED

Business establishments in Brainerd dependent on electricity for operation were at a standstill for three hours and forty-five minutes this afternoon due to lightning disrupting power service.

The city of Brainerd as a whole was without electricity from 3:30 until 7:15 P. M.

The Northern Pacific railway shops and the Northwest Paper Mill continued to operate as their independent commercial power plants were not affected.

The city was deprived of electricity when lightning struck and burned out entirely the Riverton switchboard at the Riverton station. The other power lines of the Minnesota Power & Light Company which supplies Brainerd with electricity, went out of commission at practically the same time when the storm hit the main line leading from Pillager and Little Falls. Crews of men were immediately put to work to repair the damage.

The water and light department made connections with The Northwest Paper Company switchboard at 6 P. M. but the load was so heavy that the fuse blew out at the switchboard. This repaired light was furnished Northeast and Southeast Brainerd. The business section, however, continued dark and no power was available.

No other damage than that to electricity of the city could be learned, except a few trees being felled.

The towns of Crosby and Ironton rode the storm with their power systems operating on schedule.

The shutdown due to lack of electric power caused considerable financial losses to business establishments in Brainerd. The water and light department was besieged with hundreds of calls from Brainerd patrons for electricity.

No injuries were reported in the storm throughout the Brainerd area.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company reported that their lines in the vicinity of Brainerd were not affected. Their service continued normal.

Police officers were called to the banks of Brainerd for protection when the lights went out. Many people were waiting in the banks at the time.

The Dispatch was one of a number of business establishments affected by the storm. Lack of power delayed operation of linotypes and the press, forcing the paper to come out late.

Farmers and others appreciated the rainfall which measured 0.47 inch.

Heavy hail fell in Brainerd and the countryside about 3:30 P. M.

A heavy lightning bolt struck at Staples at 5 P. M., but no report of damage was received.

Rain and hail fell at Fergus Falls and rain was heavy on the Fergus Falls branch line of the Northern Pacific railway.

STATE TESTIMONY IS ASSAILED IN KIRKLAND TRIAL

DEFENSE CALLS 2 WITNESSES BARTON, SHIRK, 'DIRTY, FILTHY RATS'

CHARGES TESTIMONY GIVEN SO TWO HOPE TO ESCAPE TRIAL

Valparaiso, Ind., May 26.—(U.P.)—The testimony Henry Shirk and Paul Barton gave when they became state's witnesses in Virgil Kirkland's second trial on charges of murdering Arlene Draves was assailed by defense attorneys today.

Ronald Oldham, Chicago attorney who presented the defense's closing arguments, declared that Barton and Shirk, who testified Kirkland led criminal attacks on Arlene during a Gary liquor party, were "dirty, filthy rats."

Prosecutors John Underwood and Robert G. Estil, will present the state's final summation, after which Judge Grant Crumpacker had a list of 60 instructions to read. Kirkland's fate was expected to go to the jury around 5 p. m.

He charged the testimony of Barton and Shirk was the result of a deal by which the youths hoped to escape trial on the same charges as Kirkland, with whom they were indicted.

The prosecution denied that Barton and Shirk bargained their freedom for testifying as state's witnesses.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 26.—Three workers were killed and five wounded in a clash between communists and police at the Hungarian village of Kossuth, near Bratislava, reports said today.

During the siege of Syracuse in the Second Punic war, Archimedes is said to have constructed a burning mirror which set the Roman ships on fire when they were within a bowshot of the wall. ## Fifty Million Stamps Will Broadcast Her Charms

New Postage Stamp to Commemorate Red Cross Anniversary Will Bear Picture of Beautiful Marie Bard, Artists' Model De Luxe.

BY ALICE ALDEN. NEW YORK, May 25.—Is the government going "arty" with beautiful models and everything? Art for art's sake is an old story, but art for the nation's sake is news—and good news at that. The postal department has at last made an official announcement of a bit of gossip that has been current in art circles for weeks. It is to the effect that 50,000,000 special postage stamps are to be issued bearing the picture of one of New York's most celebrated artists' models. You have met her many times on the pages of the country's leading periodicals. She demonstrates ice boxes, soft drinks and other commodities from the vantage point of billboards. She is beautiful Marie Bard, of Astoria, L. I. And she is just thrilled that she is to decorate your mail.

When Lawrence Wilbur was commissioned to paint a poster for the Red Cross last Autumn, he decided that the model for such an important commission would have to be a model girl. Not that the artist doesn't think highly of the majority of the models used by the leading artists. But this time he wanted breeding, background, culture as well as breathtaking beauty. And so he bethought himself of Miss Bard, who had been educated at the Drew Seminary for Young Women and who had sang Methodist hymns in the choir. When the painting was completed it showed Miss Bard as a sweet faced nurse, her hands spread in loving benediction over the globe, a mother to suffering humanity. It is this picture that the authorities are going to use for the new postage stamps.

Miss Marion Bachelder Gives Kitchen Shower for Miss Alice O'Brien

A novel kitchen shower was given by Miss Marion Bachelder, 209 1/2 So. Seventh street last evening for Miss Alice O'Brien, bride-to-be. Decorations were cleverly carried out in a kitchen motif, and the guests all came attired in kitchen aprons and house dresses. The tables were covered with her and white checked table cloth, and little potted petunias were used for table decorations.

Four tables of bridge were played with Mrs. Calvin Orth taking high honors and Miss Lucille Kampmann the second prize. The honor guest was showered with a variety of lovely kitchen articles. Her marriage to Theodore Ryan of Oklahoma will be an event of Monday, June 1.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

A ONE-PIECE PAJAMA

If you're not already a pajama enthusiast, surely this model will convert you to that wholly informal, smart and comfortable and—yes—sensible mode. It's as smart as a new frock, as youthful as a little girl's romper, as comfortable as a negligee and as modest as grandma's skirts, and, furthermore, it can be made for less than the very low price of the charming low-heeled sandals that should be worn with it. The wide trousers join the bodice in a slenderizing pointed outline which simulates a yoke in front, while the yoke in back is gathered to a belt. Long or short sleeves gathered to a band are provided. How do you like the little collar?

Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5471. Sizes 12 to 40, 35 cents.

Probably Legend
During the siege of Syracuse in the Second Punic war, Archimedes is said to have constructed a burning mirror which set the Roman ships on fire when they were within a bowshot of the wall. It is probable that Archimedes had constructed some such burning instrument, but the connection of it with the destruction of the Roman fleet is more than doubtful.

Fifty Million Stamps Will Broadcast Her Charms

New Postage Stamp to Commemorate Red Cross Anniversary Will Bear Picture of Beautiful Marie Bard, Artists' Model De Luxe.

POSING FOR RED CROSS POSTER

MARIE BARD

BY ALICE ALDEN.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Is the government going "arty" with beautiful models and everything? Art for art's sake is an old story, but art for the nation's sake is news—and good news at that. The postal department has at last made an official announcement of a bit of gossip that has been current in art circles for weeks. It is to the effect that 50,000,000 special postage stamps are to be issued bearing the picture of one of New York's most celebrated artists' models. You have met her many times on the pages of the country's leading periodicals. She demonstrates ice boxes, soft drinks and other commodities from the vantage point of billboards. She is beautiful Marie Bard, of Astoria, L. I. And she is just thrilled that she is to decorate your mail.

When Lawrence Wilbur was commissioned to paint a poster for the Red Cross last Autumn, he decided that the model for such an important commission would have to be a model girl. Not that the artist doesn't think highly of the majority of the models used by the leading artists. But this time he wanted breeding, background, culture as well as breathtaking beauty. And so he thought himself of Miss Bard, who had been educated at the Drew Seminary for Young Women and who had sang Methodist hymns in the choir. When the painting was completed it showed Miss Bard as a sweet faced nurse, her hands spread in loving benediction over the globe, a mother to suffering humanity. It is this picture that the authorities are going to use for the new postage stamps.

PARAMOUNT AIDS IN REFRIGERATION WEEK

"Electric Refrigeration Week" will be observed in Brainerd for the week beginning May 31 through June 6, with special displays of latest models of electric refrigeration at the Paramount theatre.

Exhibitors will be: Gateway Electric Co., Alderman-Maghan, J. C. Clausen, Wm. Graham Co., and E. W. Imgrund Co.

The theatre lobby will be especially decorated during the exhibition. Electric refrigeration has come to the fore rapidly in the past few years and up to recently it has only been used by commercial enterprises as is demonstrated here particularly in the Paramount theatre.

The refrigeration demonstrated will be of the type within reach of the average home for domestic use.

Apparently Beggar Had Found Ruse Profitable

The New Yorker thought he had experienced every form of panhandling extant. Recently, however, he visited Washington and learned a new wrinkle in extracting money from the pockets of the public.

Walking through a public square in the afternoon with one of the numerous judges who lives in the capital, a man approached. In his arms was a baby; at his side was his wife and walking in front were two more children not over six years old.

Holding a half-dollar up between his finger and thumb, the man with the baby muttered to the New Yorker as he passed: "Won't you help me pay my rent?"

The visitor dug into his pocket for a quarter, but the judge stopped him. "You don't know if this man is worth helping," he said. "We have a community chest in Washington to take care of such cases."

As the New Yorker argued the point with the judge, the man and his family disappeared.

A few minutes later a taxicab swept past and as the New Yorker jumped back to avoid it he saw, comfortably driving home, the man who had pleaded for assistance with his rent, and the whole family accompanying him.—New York Sun.

People of Asia Minor

First to Breed Mules?

The mule, which is the product of a cross between a mare and a male ass, has been bred as a beast of burden since early times. The inhabitants of Mysia, Paphlagonia and Capadocia, ancient countries in Asia Minor, are said to have been the first people to raise mules. This, while not definitely established, is borne out by Homeric tradition. Mules were bred in large numbers by both the ancient Greeks and Romans. The Jews were forbidden to breed mules by Leviticus 19:19, which declares, "Thou shalt not let thy cattle gender with a diverse kind." Evidently, however, the Israelites either imported the hybrids or broke the law, because early in their history they possessed large numbers of mules, which in a hilly country like Palestine were preferable to horses and asses for many purposes. It is probable that in some cases "mule" is employed in English translations of the Bible when "ass" would be the proper word.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Islands Now American

Wake Island was acquired by the United States in 1898, as a result of the Spanish-American war, and was ceded to this country by Spain under the treaty of Paris, which ended the war. Midway islands are now a part of the Hawaiian group, and under the jurisdiction of the Hawaiian government. They were discovered by Capt. U. C. Brooks in the ship Gambier on July 5, 1859, and officially taken possession of in the name of the United States on August 28, 1867, by Captain Reynolds of the U. S. S. Lackawanna. Baker Island was taken possession of in the name of the United States in 1839 by an American named Michael Baker, who first discovered it in 1832. Howland Island was discovered by George E. Netcher in 1842, and officially possessed in the name of the United States in 1857.

Depressions are Nothing New

DEPRESSIONS are nothing new in the history of the United States. The country has had several of them and has worked out of each slough of despond.

The Cleveland Trust Company of Cleveland has prepared a diagram which is a chart of American industrial activity from 1854 to 1931. It shows the fluctuations by business cycles. Going back 78 years, this chart record is said to cover a greater period in business history than any other comparative chart. The 78 years' record shows 13 well defined periods of depression.

Credit expansion prosperity extended throughout 1854, 1855, 1856 and part of 1857. Then came the panic of 1857. The secession depression covered 1861 and 1862, followed by two and a half years of war prosperity, succeeded by a post-war depression. There followed four years of comparatively good times and then in 1871, 1872 and 1873, the three years of industrial over-expansion prosperity. In 1874 there came six years of the long depression of the 70's. In 1880 we had the start of the four years of prosperity based on gold resumption. The depression of 1884 followed. In 1886 there was an upturn to better times with the railroad prosperity evident in 1889 and 1890. In 1891 there was the Baring crisis, short-lived and followed by a quick resumption of good times.

The panic of 1893 is remembered by many and was followed by the recovery of 1895. The silver campaign depression took up the years of 1896 and 1897. Then came fairly good times and in their train the prosperity of the mergers. A rich man's panic occurred in 1903 and 1904. Corporate prosperity ruled in 1905, 1906 and part of 1907, followed by the so-called panic of 1907. Five years of fluctuation followed, ending in a war depression of 1914 and 1915. World war prosperity ruled in 1916, 1917 and 1918, with fluctuations in 1919 and 1920 and a post-war depression in 1921 and 1922. Good times came again next year and included the so-called Coolidge prosperity, and the Bull Market boom. Then followed the depression of 1930 and the gradual upturn in 1931.

Our Policemen

THE DISPATCH was shown an editorial from a Minneapolis paper stating that Americans do not have a very good opinion of their police.

The argument does not fit in Brainerd. Police here are active in ferreting out crime. A recent instance is the quick solution of the jewelry store and dry cleaning store robbery, the apprehension of two suspects, recovery of the goods, followed by speedy arraignment of two alleged culprits. Police and sheriff's office were given wide publicity for the efficient work.

It was an act of courtesy on the part of a Brainerd policeman to stop the idling motor in a passenger car and it was his devotion to duty that caused him to make arrests of the persons who had liquor stored in such a car. The liquor was in clear view when he stopped the engine.

The police of Brainerd have been particularly instructed to be polite and helpful to tourists and to give all information possible relative to the lake region, etc.

There is no flippant disregard of the police in Brainerd such as one once saw portrayed in the movie comics.

Two Sides to Speed Holman

AN eastern paper comments on the fact that Holman, killed in a stunning crash at Omaha, was one of the very few figures in aviation who combined a spectacular career with the conservatism necessary in commercial aviation.

At the office he was the operations manager of Northwest Airways. After hours he was one of the country's greatest acrobatic and racing pilots.

He ran his airlines safely and sanely. He was a credit to aviation and to the company for which he worked. But he was wild and woolly when he sat in his own personal plane.

Holman died as he'd lived—at the peak of a fascinating career. He died as he had lived—with a roar and a flash at 300 miles an hour.

He was buried on the highest point of land between Chicago and Minneapolis, along the route of Northwest Airways.

Full Allegiance Sought

THE Supreme Court has decided that allegiance to the United States means a whole-hearted one, an allegiance without any mental reservations. The high court refused citizenship to a theology teacher who wished to be judge of the kind of a war in which he would fight for his country. He declared he would not fight wars "against the will of God."

The convictions which caused the professor to decline to take an oath to bear arms in support of the United States with reservation against conflicts which he regarded as unjust were formed in actual war experience.

AN attendance of 50 newspapermen is anticipated at the spring meeting of the Red River Valley Editorial association which will be held in Thief River Falls Monday, June 8. The detailed program is being worked out by Harry Phillips, publisher of the Mahanomen Pioneer, and Ray Pfund, editor of the Ada Index, president and secretary, respectively.

METALLURGISTS at the University of Minnesota tested samples of metal to determine the success of a new process for production of high grade manganese from Minnesota's low grade iron ore deposits.

THE Twin Cities will be largely represented among the tourists to visit the Brainerd Lake Region. The season opens this week end for a large proportion of the cottages and resorts.

It pays to drive slowly on a newly built or treated bituminous road. Slow driving picks up a smaller amount of the treatment to fasten to your car.

THE board of regents of the University of Minnesota will hold its next meeting June 8 in the regents' room of the administration building.

CROP conditions are reported good in Minnesota and North-eastern North Dakota.

WARM weather seems to be assured for Memorial Day and the week end.

FOUR WARRIORS TO COMPETE IN STATE MEET; TAKE FOURTH PLACE IN REGIONAL

MOE, HOHMAN, MARSHALL AND WYGLE TO COMPETE AT U. FIELD HOUSE

Coaches Dammann's and Taylor's Warriors gathered 27 points to place fourth in the Regional track meet held at Moorhead last Saturday. Crosby-Ironton amassed 39 points to win the meet while Perham and Herman followed with 32 and 28½ points respectively.

Four Brainerd boys won the privilege of attending the state meet this year by taking either first or second in the Regional events. These four are: Moe, Hohman, Marshall and Wygle. Foster, crack javelin hurler, is also expected to compete at the state meet, although because of the peculiar conditions under which the Moorhead meet was held, his record breaking tosses were counted as fouls. Schuety also earned the right to enter this meet but his age will disqualify him before it will be held.

The Brainerd scores and their events are (5 points for 1st place, 4 points for 2nd, 3 points for 3rd, 2 points for 4th, and 1 for 5th):
Moe: 1st in the 440-yard dash.
G. Wygle: tied for 1st in pole vault at 11.6.
Hohman: tied for 1st in high jump at 5:10.

Marshall: 2nd in the discus.
Schuety: 2nd in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Malmstrom: 4th in the half mile.
B. Wygle: 5th in the high hurdles.

Relay team (Moe, Schuety, McCleary and Malmstrom): 4th.

The meet was the fastest that has been held for years and competition was extremely close.

PAT'S PATT

Goodbye, our Alma Mater,
Farewell, dear Brainerd High;
With swelling hearts we leave thee
To love these till we die.
We cherish all our memories
Of thee and thine as well;
Let's hope the underclassmen
Retain thy charming spell.

When a feller needs a friend, Did you ever feel like the little lad that had just lost his pet dog and didn't even feel like going to the ol' swimmin' hole?

At the Baccalaureate the other nite, many Seniors had occasion to cry and some of the audience even commented on how solemn the class looked.

But when one thinks of the four blessed years that we've enjoyed here, we only forget that we're leaving it all to launch our frail rafts on the briny deep.

It's like standin' blindfolded on the edge of a chasm with one foot poised to step. To do or not to do—that is the question. That one step will decide our lives—likewise the first step after graduation will be a leading step to the uncertain future.

Some of us will stumble; some of us will falter and hesitate; but a few of us will either step over or turn to safer, straighter paths. I wonder how many of us will be guided by instinct and choose the straight and narrow.

This old school of ours has been a dear old standby and something we've cherished for four years. We're going to will it to our successors in the hope that they will be the staunch boosters that we have tried to be. Our meager supply of trophies will gradually grow in coming years. We have started to rebuild the memories and trophies that were destroyed by the fire and we take great pride in passing them on.

Our teachers, we'll leave with regret. They've coached and guided us through our many or few attainments and we are duly grateful.

We hereby bequeath our dear old Alma Mater, the teachers, and all our memoirs to the Juniors and underclassmen but our memories we'll plant in the garden of our hearts to bloom forevermore.

Gambler's Trick

Milton C. Work says that the "Mississippi heart hand" is a hand supposed to have been used by gamblers on the Mississippi steamers and is apparently a very strong hand, but in reality is badly beaten by the adversaries. It is the type of hand that people who take chances on playing cards with steamers or train pick-ups may expect to have run in on them.

Winning Affection

In the intercourse of social life, it is by little acts of watchful kindness recurring daily and hourly, by words, by tones, by gestures, by looks, that affection is won and preserved.—Sala.

EXCHANGE

The students opinion in the 'Campus Breeze,' University high school paper is very frank and to the point! We wonder how they can say the things they do and get by with it!

Most of the papers we have received during the last week have been more of the sentimental type—farewells to the Seniors!

Some more sentimentalism from 'The Wilho!'.

In two weeks the seniors will be out in the wide, wide world searching for a foundation on which to build up their future lives. It will be theirs to choose what they will do. It will be up to them to play the game, and to see it through to the very end. No one can map out their futures for them. They must do it themselves.

Perhaps some will go to higher institutions of learning, while others will take up their life work immediately. But regardless of what they do, the responsibility rests upon them to make a success of it. They are in a position to go out and become acquainted with the business and social world, not as an observer, but as one of the eggs in the wheel of its busy, bustling life. It is with a feeling of deepest pride that we see the seniors cross the threshold.

This is the last 'Exchange' that we have in the Brainerdian and I only wish it were the first. For two years I have had the responsibility of Exchange Editor and regret that I must now give it up. I hope that my successors may enjoy keeping in touch with other schools as much as I have. As I have often said, I think Exchange is the medium through which the schools keep in contact with each other's different opinions, etc.

So here's to a 'bigger and better' Brainerdian weekly!
MILDRED E. JOHNSON.

OUTSTANDING STUDENTS PAID TRIBUTE AT HONOR PROGRAM

ATHLETES AWARDED LETTERS, OTHERS GIVEN DUE RECOGNITION

All the good and faithful athletes, the students who have been diligent in their various studies and those who this year have been honored by the holding of offices in the different classes, and in Brainerdian work, received their ample reward last Thursday at the Honor Program held in the auditorium.

The activities were started by the National Honor Society. They conducted the ritual admitting the 23 candidates into the membership of the society.

After this Miss Tornstrom took command of the stage and summoned to the platform the officers of the different clubs and classes, the Brainerdian Staff of both the annual and weekly papers, the first and second place winners in declamation.

Miss Elueck then presented the girls interclass pennants to the various winners. The sophomores were given the interclass basketball pennant with Elizabeth Patterson responding with "thank you." The Juniors were awarded the pennants for volleyball ball while the sophs took honors in kitenball.

To cap the whole day Coach Dammann took the stage (literally true) and presented letters and numerals to the boys who have so successfully carried the colors of Brainerd high in athletics and gave the pennants to the various class teams that excelled in the different sports.

The Seniors under Captain Storm received the Interclass basketball banner and Harold Moe came shyly forth to accept Interclass track pennant also for the worthy Seniors. The interclass kitenball pennant race was in such dispute that no team will be given the pennant until the differences have been ironed out.

Twenty brawny giants were awarded letters in recognition of their achievements on the gridiron. These lucky ones are: Garvey, (captain), Cass, Hogan, Lukens, Marshall, Patterson, Schuety, Wareing, Franks, Foster, Gabius, Haas, Koeck, McPherson, Templeton, Swanson, Hiekenen, B. Wygle, G. Wygle, and Moe.

Those that excelled on the basketball also recognized with their letter, ten boys received them. They were: Schuety (old captain), B. Wygle, G. Wygle, White, Patterson, Foster (new captain), Franks, Larson, Marshall, and McPherson.

In track Moe, Schuety and Foster Wygle, G. Wygle, Malmstrom, McLeary, Marshall, White and Hohman (new captain) were allotted letters. Olson, manager, received no letter but will next year if he performs his duties faithfully.

The junior high team consisting of Moistad, Smith, Tollison, Sherlan Gallagher, Heikonen, Du Kresne and Schaffer received numerals for completing an undefeated year of stiff competition. Winners in last year's track meet were also given numerals.

Students Manager Will Anderson was given a full sized letter with an M on it in recognition of his faithful service in watching over equipment. Cheer Leaders Golemboski, Rice, Wyott and Campbell were also given half size letters.

Banquet Caps Successful

Athletic Season

Athletics, ticket sellers, and sponsors of athletics met last Tuesday night in the final Gala Event of the year, the athletic banquet. After a delightful meal of cock tail, baked potatoes, string beans, apple pie ala mode and other delicacies, speeches were given by prominent athletes and the coaches, capped by the big event of the evening, a speech by Mr. Carl Zapffe, Sr.

The captains of the track and basketball teams for next year were voted upon by their team mates with the Seniors excluded from the poles. Bill Hohman was selected as leader of the 1932 track men while Elmer Foster was chosen to captain the basketball five. Because no outstanding leader looms out on the gridiron the football season next year will open with no chosen captain.

JR.-SR. PROM IS DECLARED MOST ENJOYABLE EVENT OF ENTIRE YEAR

ALUMNI

Raymond Anderson, '23 has accepted a position as Resident Editor of the Crow Wing Review, a weekly paper which is a continuation of the Pequot Herald. Ray has always shown journalistic tendencies, and we wish him luck in this enterprise in his chosen profession.

Kent Whitlock, former athlete and student at B. H. S., visited school last week. Kent is president of the student council at Mayville Teacher's College, Mayville, N. D.

Carl Zapffe, '29, sophomore in the college of engineering at the U. of M., spent the week end in Brainerd.

Roberta Crawford, '29, and Alberta Smith, '30, spent the week end in the city. The two chums live together in St. Paul where Bob is employed in the Montgomery Ward Store and Al attends the Burroughs Secretarial school.

Russell Nelson and Roger Klevens, '30, traveled to Canada in Russ' Ford last week.

This is the last 'Alumni' we shall edit before the present Seniors become our 31 alumni. We are reluctant to let them go, for they have been very active and indispensable to the school. We shall try to carry on without them as best we can, and fill their places to the fullest of our capacity, but the place in our hearts reserved for them alone can never be filled. We hope that they will think of us often after they have left, and pay us a visit occasionally in the coming years, as we always welcome any alumnus who returns to his old Alma Mater.

TRI-HI BIDS SENIOR MEMBERS FAREWELL AT LAST BANQUET

MISS TORNSTROM GIVES ADDRESS OF EVENING TO DEPARTING GIRLS

"Farewell Seniors" was the theme of a banquet held last evening in the cafeteria at which the Tri-Hi girls gathered in the last meeting of the year. For some it was the last meeting forever.

The tables formed a triangle and upon them were blue and white nut-cups which made a pretty sight along with the sumptuous bright colors of the dresses worn by the girls.

After a welcome by Marjorie Forsberg and response by Alice Nolan, they settled themselves, about the tables and partook of a most delicious dinner prepared by Mrs. Hagberg and Mrs. Clausen, which consisted of fruit cocktail, roast pork, mashed potatoes and gravy, string beans, buns and olives. Ice cream and cookies completed the dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed among much laughter.

The tears were reserved for afterwards when a short program was given in the auditorium where Mildred Johnson gave two delightful solos, "Romance" and "With You," and Bernice Steinfeldt gave an Italian reading "Little Gullspenn."

But the crowning event of the evening came with Miss Tornstrom's farewell address. Before, however, she read a number of selections from Barack Room Ballads by Kipling which were very well given and received. Then in her usual pleasing manner, she portrayed her sorrow at the departure of the seniors and her hopes for them. Every word reached every Senior heart and not a few tears were shed when she had finished. She expressed her desire that they come back and visit and the girls secretly resolved to do so, often.

The two advisers, Miss Swanson and Mrs. Pomeroy, Louise Clausen, Arline Hagberg and Anna Cass gave a few short speeches in which they wished Seniors luck on the road of life.

Golden Weddings

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company says that the probability of a couple's celebrating the golden wedding anniversary depends upon their ages at the time of their marriage. If the girl is twenty and the young man twenty-five, the chances are 1 in 6. If their marriage occurs ten years later, the chances are 1 in 40.

Improved Walnut

A heart nut is a variation of the Japanese walnut. It can be raised in this country. The tree has large, almost tropical-looking foliage and the nut is heart-shaped, smooth, brown in color and is of excellent quality, having a flavor closely resembling our butternut.

OCCASION IS ONE OF BEAUTY AND PLEASURE FOR ALL

Departing Seniors were entertained in royal fashion by the Juniors in a final union of both classes at the Prom, held Saturday, May 23, in the high school cafeteria and gymnasium.

To begin the evening, a very elegant banquet of creamed turkey and other substantial foods was served by a group of Sophomore girls, to nearly two hundred upper classmen in the cafeteria. For a short time following the dinner everyone was expected to imagine himself in an airplane. Drexel Geist, Junior class president, represented the take-off, welcoming the Seniors to the Prom and acting as toastmaster for the following speakers: Gerald Cass, president of the Senior Class, representing the passengers, in a very interesting manner, thanked the Junior class for the delightful trip. Mr. Cobb, the captain, followed with a short speech filled with his typical humor. Miss Tornstrom, a serious-minded pilot, ured a thorough training on the ground school that we may be capable of piloting successfully our airship of life. Mr. Ford lent his musical ability to the occasion by leading in a number of song favorites between speeches.

SKOOL SKANDEL

When the orchestra struck up Lohengrin's Wedding March at the Prom Mr. Squire led his blushing bride before the interested crowd, and a deep sigh issued from the inner heart of every male present. Her beautiful face stirred the emotions of our youthful Valentines and would-be-Billie Doves. We are certainly proud of the new addition Ralph made to the school faculty.

One of our bashful Seniors, Stuart Patterson, has worked up his courage. Frances Young was the lovely victim of his attentions at the Jr.-Sr. Prom, Saturday.

Anna Cass and Drexel Geist certainly made good looking couple to lead the Prom. Did you notice how radiant the beautiful blond appeared?

A few of the couples attending were: Lyle Mayo and Clarice Olson, Murrell Goederz and Ted Franks, Amy Markham and Gay Kinney, Pat Irvine and Carl Holvick, Mary Hawkins and John Linn, Joyce Smith and Joe Lutz, Fanny Quinen and Alse Trommald, Jean Lucas and Dwight Curo, Eddie Jernberg and Evelyn Anderson, George Irvine and Evelyn Loom, Ted Marshall and Frances Reese, Bob Hanson and Frannie Peterson, Tootie Hoffbauer and Elmer Foster, Helen Sheets and Ray Wareing, Babe Skiba and Ski, Marie Thoe and Joe Marshall, Virginia Rowland and Howard Haas, Van Twist and Vernon Marshall, Ruth Fallquist and Leroy Wyett, Mr. Ford and Miss Farankop, Gerald Cass and Wilda Glanville, Mildred Johnson and Kenneth Stinson, Stuart Patterson and Frances Young, Louise Clausen and Parker Campbell, Joe Hogan and Arline Hagberg, Harriet Oberg and Joe Armstrong, Harold Strickler and Harriet Halvorson, Doris Geist and Leo Turcotte, Howard Storm and Fay Rosina, Clara Grimstad and John Zander, Dorothy Opsahl and Hubert Coenan.

Rev. Vaillant suggested a new class flower. The "blooming idiot" is quite appropriate.

Believe it or Not?
George Fox has never been tardy in four years—and never absent except once when he was excused to be a pall bearer. What a record.

"Beautiful Island"

The island of Formosa, called by the Japanese Taiwan, received its name from Portuguese traders who sighted the island while sailing off the coast of China in 1590, and were so struck by its beauty that they called it "Ilha Formosa" (beautiful island).

Rulers Chosen for Wisdom

During the 4,000 years of Chinese empire's existence, China had no hereditary aristocracy. Instead, the emperor's advisers were selected from the wisest men in the land by examinations held at the imperial palace in Peking, and conducted by the emperor himself.

Highland Customs

In the great homes of the Scotch Highlands natives dress still is worn on formal occasions. The clans hold several gatherings every year, and the annual Highland games are events which attract crowds as large as those attending the more widely advertised sporting events of the south.

Bullfighters' Hats

There are two kinds of hats worn by bullfighters. The first is worn when in the arena fighting and is called a "montera." It is usually made of velvet and worn over a wig. The dimensions do not vary. The second kind is called the "sombrero ancho" and is made of felt. This is worn by a bullfighter when walking on the street.

Depressions are Nothing New

DEPRESSIONS are nothing new in the history of the United States. The country has had several of them and has worked out of each slough of despond.

The Cleveland Trust Company of Cleveland has prepared a diagram which is a chart of American industrial activity from 1854 to 1931. It shows the fluctuations by business cycles. Going back 78 years, this chart record is said to cover a greater period in business history than any other comparative chart. The 78 years' record shows 13 well defined periods of depression.

Credit expansion prosperity extended throughout 1854, 1855, 1856 and part of 1857. Then came the panic of 1857. The secession depression covered 1861 and 1862, followed by two and a half years of war prosperity, succeeded by a post-war depression. There followed four years of comparatively good times and then in 1871, 1872 and 1873, the three years of industrial over-expansion prosperity. In 1874 there came six years of the long depression of the 70's. In 1880 we had the start of the four years of prosperity based on gold resumption. The depression of 1884 followed. In 1886 there was an upturn to better times with the railroad prosperity evident in 1889 and 1890. In 1891 there was the Baring crisis, short-lived and followed by a quick resumption of good times.

The panic of 1893 is remembered by many and was followed by the recovery of 1895. The silver campaign depression took up the years of 1896 and 1897. Then came fairly good times and in their train the prosperity of the mergers. A rich man's panic occurred in 1903 and 1904. Corporate prosperity ruled in 1905, 1906 and part of 1907, followed by the so-called panic of 1907. Five years of fluctuation followed, ending in a war depression of 1914 and 1915. World war prosperity ruled in 1916, 1917 and 1918, with fluctuations in 1919 and 1920 and a post-war depression in 1921 and 1922. Good times came again next year and included the so-called Coolidge prosperity, and the Bull Market boom. Then followed the depression of 1930 and the gradual upturn in 1931.

Our Policemen

THE DISPATCH was shown an editorial from a Minneapolis paper stating that Americans do not have a very good opinion of their police.

The argument does not fit in Brainerd. Police here are active in ferreting out crime. A recent instance is the quick solution of the jewelry store and dry cleaning store robbery, the apprehension of two suspects, recovery of the goods, followed by speedy arraignment of two alleged culprits. Police and sheriff's office were given wide publicity for the efficient work.

It was an act of courtesy on the part of a Brainerd policeman to stop the idling motor in a passenger car and it was his devotion to duty that caused him to make arrests of the persons who had liquor stored in such a car. The liquor was in clear view when he stopped the engine.

The police of Brainerd have been particularly instructed to be polite and helpful to tourists and to give all information possible relative to the lake region, etc.

There is no flippant disregard of the police in Brainerd such as one once saw portrayed in the movie comics.

Two Sides to Speed Holman

AN eastern paper comments on the fact that Holman, killed in a stunning crash at Omaha, was one of the very few figures in aviation who combined a spectacular career with the conservatism necessary in commercial aviation.

At the office he was the operations manager of Northwest Airways. After hours he was one of the country's greatest acrobatic and racing pilots.

He ran his airlines safely and sanely. He was a credit to aviation and to the company for which he worked. But he was wild and wooly when he sat in his own personal plane.

Holman died as he had lived—with a roar and a flash at 300 miles an hour.

He was buried on the highest point of land between Chicago and Minneapolis, along the route of Northwest Airways.

Full Allegiance Sought

THE Supreme Court has decided that allegiance to the United States means a whole-hearted one, an allegiance without any mental reservations. The high court refused citizenship to a theology teacher who wished to be judge of the kind of a war in which he would fight for his country. He declared he would not fight wars "against the will of God."

The convictions which caused the professor to decline to take an oath to bear arms in support of the United States with reservation against conflicts which he regarded as unjust were formed in actual war experience.

AN attendance of 50 newspapermen is anticipated at the spring meeting of the Red River Valley Editorial association which will be held in Thief River Falls Monday, June 8. The detailed program is being worked out by Harry Phillips, publisher of the Mahanomen Pioneer, and Ray Pfund, editor of the Ada Index, president and secretary, respectively.

METALLURGISTS at the University of Minnesota tested samples of metal to determine the success of a new process for production of high grade manganese from Minnesota's low grade iron ore deposits.

THE Twin Cities will be largely represented among the tourists to visit the Brainerd Lake Region. The season opens this week end for a large proportion of the cottages and resorts.

It pays to drive slowly on a newly built or treated bituminous road. Slow driving picks up a smaller amount of the treatment to fasten to your car.

THE board of regents of the University of Minnesota will hold its next meeting June 8 in the regents' room of the administration building.

CROP conditions are reported good in Minnesota and North-eastern North Dakota.

WARM weather seems to be assured for Memorial Day and the week end.

YE EDITOR

At different times during our lives each of us will find himself leaving behind him all of his former friends, his former habits and life, and turning to something entirely new and different.

Graduation—or should we say commencement—is the first and perhaps the most cataclysmic experience of this sort, because it severs us from all the companions and conditions with which we have grown up and become young men and young women.

From now on, whatever we do and whatever we make of our lives will depend entirely upon us, our own ability and our own ambition. It will be hard to part from the friends we have made during the best four years of our lives, and it will be harder to face this future without them than we realize now. This first short while after we leave the old ways and the old chums will determine in a great way the molding of the rest of our lives.

So may each of us make this coming event a true commencement, not a 'Finishment' of the fullest part of a life; may it mark a new beginning for all of us of a life rich with the achievements and accomplishments of a group blessed with all the advantages of a good education—and may it bring to each of us the realization of our fondest dreams and hopes.

OUTSTANDING STUDENTS PAID TRIBUTE AT HONOR PROGRAM

ATHLETES AWARDED LETTERS, OTHERS GIVEN DUE RECOGNITION

All the good and faithful athletes, the students who have been diligent in their various studies and those who this year have been honored by the holding of offices in the different classes, and in Brainonian work, received their ample reward last Thursday at the Honor Program held in the auditorium.

The activities were started by the National Honor Society. They conducted the ritual admitting the 23 candidates into the membership of the society.

After this Miss Tornstrom took command of the stage and summoned to the platform the officers of the different clubs and classes, the Brainonian Staff of both the annual and weekly papers, the first and second place winners in declamation.

Miss Flueck then presented the girls interclass pennants to the various winners. The sophomores were given the interclass basketball pennant with Elizabeth Patterson responding with "thank you." The Juniors were awarded the pennants for volleyball while the sophs took honors in kitenball.

To cap the whole day Coach Dammann took the stage (literally true) and presented letters and numerals to the boys who have so successfully carried the colors of Brainerd high in athletics and gave the pennants to the various class teams that excelled in the different sports.

The Seniors under Captain Storm received the Interclass basketball banner and Harold Moe came shyly forth to accept Interclass track pennant also for the worthy Seniors. The interclass kitenball pennant race was in such dispute that no team will be given the pennant until the differences have been ironed out.

Twenty brave giants were awarded letter in recognition of their achievements on the gridiron. These lucky ones are: Garvey, (captain), Cass, Hogan, Lukens, Marshall, Patterson, Schuety, Wareing, Franks, Foster, Gabiou, Hass, Koeh, McPherson, Templeton, Swanson, Heikenen, B. Wygle, G. Wygle, and Moe.

Those that excelled on the basketball also recognized with their letter, ten boys received them. They were: Schuety (old captain), B. Wygle, G. Wygle, White, Patterson, Foster (new captain), Franks, Larson, Marshall, and McPherson.

In track Moe, Schuety and Foster Wygle, G. Wygle, Malmstrom, McLeary, Marshall, White and Hohman (now captain) were allotted letters. Olson, manager, received no letter but will next year if he performs his duties faithfully.

The junior high team consisting of Moistad, Smith, Tollfason, Sherlan, Gallagher, Heikenen, Du Kresne and Schaffer received numerals for completing an undefeated year of stiff competition. Winners in last year's track meet were also given numerals. Students Manager Will Anderson was given a full sized letter with an M on it in recognition of his faithful service in watching over equipment. Cheer Leaders Golemboski, Rice, Wyatt and Campbell were also given half size letters.

EXCHANGE

The students opinion in the 'Campus Breeze,' University high school paper is very frank and to the point! We wonder how they can say the things they do and get by with it!

Most of the papers we have received during the last week have been more of the sentimental type—farewells to the Seniors!

Some more sentimentalism from 'The Wilohi':

In two weeks the seniors will be out in the wide, wide world searching for a foundation on which to build up their future lives. It will be theirs to choose what they will do. It will be up to them to play the game, and to see it through to the very end. No one can map out their futures for them. They must do it themselves. Perhaps some will go to higher institutions of learning, while others will take up their life work immediately. But regardless of what they do, the responsibility rests upon them to make a success of it. They are in a position to go out and become acquainted with the business and social world, not as an observer, but as one of the cogs in the wheel of its busy, bustling life. It is with a feeling of deepest pride that we see the seniors cross the threshold.

This is the first time I shall have my exchange column published in the Brainonian and I only wish it were the first. For two years I have had the responsibility of Exchange Editor and regret that I must now give it up. I hope that my successors may enjoy keeping in touch with other schools as much as I have. As I have often said, I think Exchange is the medium through which the schools keep in contact with each other's different opinions, etc.

So here's to a 'bigger and better' Brainonian weekly!

MILDRED E. JOHNSON.

Banquet Caps Successful

Athletic Season

Athletes, ticket sellers, and sponsors of athletics met last Tuesday night in the final Gala Event of the year, the athletic banquet. After a delightful meal of cock tail, baked potatoes, string beans, apple pie ala mode and other delicacies, speeches were given by prominent athletes and the coaches, capped by the big event of the evening, a speech by Mr. Carl Zapffe, Sr.

The captains of the track and basketball teams for next year were voted upon by their team mates with the Seniors excluded from the poles. Bill Hohman was selected as leader of the 1932 track men while Elmer Foster was chosen to captain the basketball five. Because no outstanding leader looms out on the gridiron the football season next year will open with no chosen captain.

JR.-SR. PROM IS DECLARED MOST ENJOYABLE EVENT OF ENTIRE YEAR

ALUMNI

Raymond Anderson, '23 has accepted a position as Resident Editor of the Crew Wing Review, a weekly paper which is a continuation of the Pequot Herald. Ray has always shown journalistic tendencies, and we wish him luck in this enterprise in his chosen profession.

Kent Whitlock, former athlete and student at B. H. S., visited school last week. Kent is president of the student council at Mayville Teacher's College, Mayville, N. D.

Carl Zapffe, '28, sophomore in the college of engineering at the U. of M., spent the week end in Brainerd.

Roberta Crawford, '29, and Alberta Smith, '30, spent the week end in the city. The two chums live together in St. Paul where Bob is employed in the Montgomery Ward Store and Al attends the Burroughs Secretarial school.

Russell Nelson and Roger Kleven, '30, traveled to Canada in Russ' Ford last week.

This is the last "Alumni" we shall edit before the present Seniors become our 31 alumni. We are reluctant to let them go, for they have been very active and indispensable to the school. We shall try to carry on without them as best we can, and fill their places to the fullest of our capacity, but the place in our hearts reserved for them alone can never be filled. We hope that they will think of us often after they have left, and pay us a visit occasionally in the coming years, as we always welcome any alumnus who returns to his old Alma Mater.

Alumni Editor.

TRI-HI BIDS SENIOR MEMBERS FAREWELL AT LAST BANQUET

MISS TORNSTROM GIVES ADDRESS OF EVENING TO DEPARTING GIRLS

"Farewell Seniors" was the theme of a banquet held last evening in the cafeteria at which the Tri-Hi girls gathered in the last meeting of the year. For some it was the last meeting forever.

The tables formed a triangle and upon them were blue and white napkins which made a pretty sight along with the summery bright colors of the dresses worn by the girls.

After a welcome by Marjorie Forsberg and response by Alice Nolan, they settled themselves about the tables and partook of a most delicious dinner prepared by Mrs. Hagberg and Mrs. Clausen, which consisted of fruit cocktail, roast pork, mashed potatoes and gravy, string beans, bunns and olives. Ice cream and cookies completed the dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed among much laughter.

The tears were reserved for afterwards when a short program was given in the auditorium where Mildred Johnson gave two delightful solos, "Romance" and "With You," and Bernice Steinfeldt gave an Italian reading "Little Gullispena."

But the crowning event of the evening came with Miss Tornstrom's farewell address. Before, however, she read a number of selections from Bar-track Room Ballads by Kipling which were very well given and received. Then in her usual pleasing manner, she portrayed her sorrow at the departure of the seniors and her hopes for them. Every word reached every Senior heart and not a few tears were shed when she had finished. She expressed her desire that they come back and visit and the girls secretly resolved to do so, often.

The two advisers, Miss Swanson and Mrs. Penrose, Louise Clausen, Arline Hagberg and Anna Cass gave a few short speeches in which they wished Seniors luck on the road of life.

Golden Weddings

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company says that the probability of a couple's celebrating the golden wedding anniversary depends upon their ages at the time of their marriage. If the girl is twenty and the young man twenty-five, the chances are 1 in 6. If their marriage occurs ten years later, the chances are 1 in 40.

Improved Walnut

A heart nut is a variation of the Japanese walnut. It can be raised in this country. The tree has large, almost tropical-looking foliage and the nut is heart-shaped, smooth, brown in color and is of excellent quality, having a flavor closely resembling our butternut.

OCCASION IS ONE OF BEAUTY AND PLEASURE FOR ALL

Departing Seniors were entertained in royal fashion by the Juniors in a final union of both classes at the Prom, held Saturday, May 23, in the high school cafeteria and gymnasium.

To begin the evening, a very elegant banquet of creamed turkey and other substantial foods was served by a group of Sophomore girls, to nearly two hundred upper classmen in the cafeteria. For a short time following the dinner everyone was expected to imagine himself in an airplane. Drexel Geist, Junior class president, represented the take-off, welcoming the Seniors to the Prom and acting as toastmaster for the following speakers: Gerald Cass, president of the Senior Class, representing the passengers, in a very interesting manner, thanked the Junior class for the delightful trip. Mr. Cobb, the captain, followed with a short speech filled with his typical humor. Miss Tornstrom, a serious-minded pilot, urged a thorough training on the ground school that we may be capable of piloting successfully our airship of life. Mr. Ford lent his musical ability to the occasion by leading in a number of song favorites between speeches.

SKOOL SKANDEL

When the orchestra struck up Lohengrin's Wedding March at the Prom Mr. Squire led his blushing bride before the interested crowd, and a deep sigh issued from the inner heart of every male present. Her beautiful face stirred the emotions of our youthful Valentinos and would-be-Bills. Doves. We are certainly proud of the new addition Ralph made to the school faculty.

One of our bashful Seniors, Stuart Patterson, has worked up his courage. Frances Young was the lovely victim of his attentions at the Jr.-Sr. Prom, Saturday.

Anna Cass and Drexel Geist certainly made good looking couple to lead the Prom. Did you notice how radiant the beautiful blond appeared?

A few of the couples attending were: Lyle Mayo and Clarice Olson, Murell Goedderz and Ted Franks, Amy Markham and Gay Kinney, Pat Irvine and Carl Holvick, Mary Hawkins and John Linn, Joyce Smith and Joe Lutz, Fanny Quinen and Alse Trommald, Jean Lucas and Dwight Curo, Eddie Jernberg and Evelyn Anderson, George Irvine and Frances Loom, Ted Hanson and Frankie Peterson, Tootie Hoffbauer and Elmer Foster, Helen Sheets and Ray Wareing, Babe Skiba and Ski, Marie Thoe and Joe Marshall, Virginia Rowland and Howard Haas, Van Twist and Vernon Marshall, Ruth Falkquist and Leroy Wyatt, Mr. Ford and Miss Far-ranckop, Gerald Cass and Wilda Glanville, Mildred Johnson and Kenneth Stimson, Stuart Patterson and Frances Young, Louise Clausen and Parker Campbell, Joe Hogan and Arline Hagberg, Harriet Oberg and Joe Armstrong, Harold Strickler and Harriet Halvorson, Doris Geist and Leo Turcotte, Howard Storm and Fay Rosina, Clara Grimstad and John Zander, Dorothy Opsahl and Hubert Coenan.

Rev. Vaillant suggested a new class flower. The "blooming idiot" is quite appropriate.

Believe it or Not?

George Fox has never been tardy in four years—and never absent except once when he was excused to be a pall bearer. What a record.

"Beautiful Island"

The Island of Formosa, called by the Japanese Taiwan, received its name from Portuguese traders who sighted the island while sailing off the coast of China in 1559, and were so struck by its beauty that they called it "Ilha Formosa" (beautiful island).

Rulers Chosen for Wladom

During the 4,000 years of Chinese empire's existence, China had no hereditary aristocracy. Instead, the emperor's advisers were selected from the wisest men in the land by examinations held at the imperial palace in Peking, and conducted by the emperor himself.

Highland Customs

In the great homes of the Scotch Highlands natives dress still is worn on formal occasions. The clans hold several gatherings every year, and the annual Highland games are events which attract crowds as large as those attending the more widely advertised sporting events of the south.

Bullfighters' Hats

There are two kinds of hats worn by bullfighters. The first is worn when in the arena fighting and is called a "montera." It is usually made of velvet and worn over a wig. The dimensions do not vary. The second kind is called the "sombrero ancho" and is made of felt. This is worn by a bullfighter when walking on the street.

"Until We Meet Again"

"Good luck until we meet again" might be heard if this was a talking picture of the handshake indulged in by Max Schmeling (left), world heavyweight champion, and Young Stribling, challenger, who will exchange fistcliffs for the world title in Cleveland, July 3. This is probably the last time the heavies will clasp hands until after they crawl through the ropes for the scrap. E. J. Kulas, of Cleveland, president of the Madison Square Corporation of Ohio, is shown in center.

Did It for Dear Old Volstead

Because a toast in wine to the new President of France was proposed at a banquet staged for visiting American mayors at Havre City Hall, Mayor and Mrs. John C. Porter (above) of Los Angeles, walked out and left the party flat. Porter said that he and his wife intended to uphold the United States Constitution by not drinking while abroad.

Demand to see the Ball and Bottle Test

It Proves That New Iso-Vis Will Not Thin Out From Dilution

The more body an oil has, the slower the ball drops. Note that used New Iso-Vis (Tube 3) has practically the same body as the fresh oil (Tube 4), while used "X" oil (Tube 2) has thinned out decidedly.

RESULTS

of Indianapolis Speedway Tests, Certified by A. A. A.

- 1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.
- 2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, the engines and chassis of all cars were lubricated effectively.
- 3 Oil Added: only 63/100 of a quart—average for all cars—of Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy) in 1,000 mile test at 30 miles per hour.

INTERCOLLEGIATE athletic supremacy in the United States will be decided tomorrow and the next day at the annual I. C. 4-A games to be held this year at Philadelphia, home of the University of Pennsylvania. And it is the team from old Penn upon which the East pins its hopes of winning first place, usually captured by the Far West in recent years. Again Southern California will be represented by a great team, which is favored to repeat its decisive 1930 triumph.

Penn, featuring Carl Coan, its mile wonder, and Barney Berlinger, decathlon specialist looms now as the best of the East's track outfits, with Yale a close second. Harvard and Cornell seem to be in a rather distinctly secondary class. The Eastern collegians have bright chances of capturing most of the middle distance events, but the weight-throwing, sprints and a good share of the jumping honors look as though they will be won by the Far Western athletes.

However, certain of the Middle West stars may cut deeply into Southern California's score this year. If Jack Keller of Ohio State is in excellent form, he ought to win the high hurdles despite first class competition, and Lee Sentman of Illinois should prove a close second. Keller clipped a tenth of a second off the world's record of 14.4 for the 120 high hurdles recently, but his 14.3 will not be official because he knocked over two hurdles on that magnificent occasion. Unofficially, when running as anchor in a shuttle relay, Keller was timed in 13.9 over that 120 timber-decked stretch!

If Ad Kelly, Georgetown flash, is in form, he may cut into the score of the Western team in the sprints. Russell Chapman of Bates in the half-mile and one or two others are likely to win certain events for their schools. If they can reduce Far Western (Southern California and Stanford) scores, and Penn maintains its great indoor form, the Red and Blue teams might win the national title.

County Commissioners Look Over
Proposed Improvements on County System

Driving over 75 miles of road in Crow Wing county, the County Board of Commissioners neared the completion of a road tour today in company with County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy.

Proposed road improvements were to be inspected by the commissioners including the establishment of a half mile road west of the Mississippi river between Sections 21, 22, Township 134, Range 28, the site of a proposed new road near Deerwood and other graveling work.

The commissioners travelled by cars down Highway No. 27 and travelled along the so called St. Mathias trail to view a half mile of road near the St. Mathias school. Returning they travelled by way of State Aid Road No. 1 to White Line road No. 15 in Long Lake township where gravelled improvements will be considered. The further route included White Line road No. 2, then along Highway No. 18 to State Aid road No. 5, for the purpose of viewing the curve at Rutger's. A delegation was then to be met at Deerwood.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The murder of Baroness von Wiese at Eagle's Nest, Emily Hardy's country home is discovered by Assistant Police Chief Walter Vance through a mysterious phone call. Emily's butler denies receiving a note from the Baroness. The shawl of Mary Frost, a guest, is found on the body. Her husband, Ted, was enamored of the Baroness. Mary's statements of returning to Eagle's Nest, alone, for the shawl, at midnight, and seeing it on Laura Allan, is discounted by information that both she and Ted arrived home together at 4 A. M. Laura claims Mary was wearing the shawl in the garden. "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter and fiancée of Vance, sees the butler dancing and is puzzled. Later, she learns that the Baroness was Margaret Belle, noted dancer. A pair of slippers is found on roof and a uniform, similar to the strip of linen discovered near the body, is unearthed in the cellar. "Bim" notes that the Baroness maid wears large shoes though otherwise petite. "Bim" discovers the tire treads on Trent's car correspond with tracks found on an unused road near Eagle's Nest. Millicent Trent spies on her. Bob Trent resents a snub the Baroness had given his wife. Mary Frost is jealous of Ted. She warns "Bim" against giving up Vance for Carey, the New York reporter. While "Bim" is with Mary, Millicent calls. After she leaves, Ted misses his cigarette lighter. Emily's maid is frightened by strange noises emanating from the Baroness' dressing room. She divulges that Laura was in the garden with Ted the night of the murder. "Bim" plans to investigate the queer sounds. "Bim" sees Imogene spying upon Jane and William.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

BIM giggled softly. "Walter's not the only one whose jealous. In fact," her thoughts raced on, "there's also Mary and Ted—and probably hosts of others. Funny thing love is, it brings the greatest happiness there is and the greatest pain. But then everything is sort of funny . . ."

Imogene knocked at the door a bit later and BIM admitted her. The girl's nose was red, as if she had been crying, but her eyes were angry and BIM did not feel really sorry for her. She seemed a capable young woman, quite able to take care of herself. By leaning from the window of Imogene's room, BIM could see down upon the stone ledge along the top of the window in the dressing room below. The window itself was not visible, since the ledge formed a shelf above the panes; yet any sound in the room would come upward. Accordingly BIM set herself to listen, first making sure that Walter's pistol was safely in her handbag, even though she was sure she would have died rather than use it.

Miss Sherlock Holmes

There were, BIM considered as she waited, a certain number of things for her to accomplish at Eagle's Nest. First, of course, was the mystery of noise in the dressing-room to clear up. But also she must find a pair of feet to match the little silver slippers; she must find the magazine from which the page upon which the Baroness had written her note to the unknown had been torn—if that magazine still were in existence. She must try to find the other half of the note itself if that, also, had not been destroyed. And she must discover who it was that had burned a waft in the laundry stove downstairs . . .

Already she had made a study of feet and there was none which even conceivably would fit the silver slippers. When they were slim enough they were too long and when they were much too wide, even the feet of the men about the place had come in for her attention, with the result that only those of William had seemed worthy of note, though not, of course, because of the silver slippers. William's feet, BIM thought, were the most nearly perfect any she ever had seen, slender, graceful, and of course, would be natural. Nothing, it appeared, was going to happen. Light over the building went on. The village tolled. The heavy, she shuffled her feet and a very gentle up, instantly alert. She thought that she had dreamed but for the possible surmises somewhere. She located it almost at once as coming from the pipe which arose from the floor and went on up to the roof.

Leaning far out of the window, she thought she decided a dim glow along the sill of the window below, but could not be sure about this as the light, if there were any, might have been a reflection from the bulb over the kitchen door or even from the stars.

Then she heard the noise again—a shuffling tap it seemed now and presently it repeated itself and came regularly in rhythmic sequence.

A Tense Moment

BIM removed her shoes and stole downstairs. Outside the dressing room door she listened, ear to the keyhole. The sound was less distinct here and the keyhole was covered from the inside so she could not determine if the room were lighted.

With a swift catch of breath, BIM produced a key and fitted it into the lock. She tried to do this without noise, but her hand shook a little and there was a slight click. The door swung back; she stood in the dressing room.

Silence met her—silence and darkness. Groping in half panic, she found the button, pushed on the light. No one was in the room; no one at all. The door to the boudoir stood open, though BIM remembered how carefully Jane had closed and locked it. She went on into that chamber, lighting it before she stepped inside. The key lay upon the lowboy as Jane had left it. But there was no one there; nothing was disturbed.

Yet BIM had a sense of presence; the feeling one sometimes experiences of coming into a place only a moment ago quitted by another. It is something less than odor, something less than warmth which attests to most recent occupancy, and it was here now in the dressing room as well as in the boudoir.

And the window of the boudoir stood wide open.

BIM rested her hands on the sill and looked out into the night—looked out into blankness. BIM telephoned Walter in the morning and he drove up in the police car, still looking grim, and talked with her out on the drive. He urged her to leave Eagle's Nest and stated his intention of himself doing duty in Imogene's room—he was insistent and gruff about this—but she maintained with tears in her eyes that he had no right to interfere with what she was doing and so at last he said no more.

"I hope things are going right for you," she told him timidly, half afraid of his new grimness and his new reserve.

"Well, enough," he nodded. "Ought to clean up in a day or so."

"Oh? Can't you tell me, Walter?"

"No." Just that. But it was like a door slammed between her and himself. She watched him go with a lonely, desperate feeling.

But toward noon Carl Carey came along and shook an accusatory fist at her. "Think I'd let a little thing like your disappearing keep me away? Not any, girl friend. Whenever you go, I'll find you. Only what's the case?"

She told a small, white lie. "No cause at all, big boy. I just wanted to be here where things are going on. Where do you go from here?"

"Wherever you go," he retorted promptly. "Just try to lose me!"

He was lovable—a cheerful, companionable soul. BIM introduced him to Em Hardy who invited him to luncheon immediately she understood that he represented the greatest of Metropolitan newspapers. And it was when William was serving the soup that BIM first felt something electric in the air, something which seemed to emanate from Carey himself. What that thing was she in no wise could have explained; it was intangible as a thought and yet it set her nerves on edge and subdued some what even Em's hilarity. William felt it, she fancied, for he seemed hurried and uncomfortable and made his trips into the dining room as brief as possible.

It was when he was obliged to spend some time moving about the table that Carey began to talk in reminiscent way, sitting back with his eyes half closed.

"Go in for the theatre much?" he enquired of Em. "Not what it used to be in days when musical comedy was young. Remember the 'Wizard of Oz' and 'The Red Mill'?" He hummed softly a few strains from song hits of those incomparable productions. "And—" he continued. "The Broadway Belle?"

"The Broadway Belle," Em stated positively, "was the best of them all!"

"Sure was," Carey agreed.

"Sweet lines. Swell music. Swell dance numbers."

"BIM did not remember the 'Broadway Belle,' and said so. Carey shook his head, laughing. "Certainly you don't, baby. It's only an old campaigner that got that far back." He added, surprisingly, "Em, William?"

"Sir?" BIM saw that the butler's face was as red as his hair and she felt a sense of outrage. But Carey merely laughed again carrying it off in a way that seemed to amuse Em.

BIM scolded afterward. "This isn't Greenwich Village, Car Carey, in case you didn't know." "And one keeps the hands in their places—that it, baby? Sure I get you. But there was a reason—in case YOU didn't know."

A light broke on BIM but she was puzzled. "Well, aren't you going to tell me what it is?"

Useless Questioning

"Tomorrow, maybe," he promised. "If it turns out. Listen, has the Banner any kind of a morgue? No? Then I'll have to go down to the city tonight; look up the dope. This, honey child, probably is going to be good."

She could get nothing more out of him and when he suggested that they go for a swim she agreed willingly enough.

As BIM descended the steep path to the beach they saw a tall, slender woman emerge from the water and go swinging along with a light step to the bathhouse. She reached the bottom of the hill as she met them and passed the time of day in her pleasant but aloofly dignified way—the way of the maid Jane.

BIM stood looking after her as she climbed the path, plodding flat-footedly up the stones. And as she neared the bathhouse she peered at the prints the maid's feet had left on the sand—thin, little depressions with five fainter ones at each curved edge.

"She walks on the balls of her feet," BIM remarked in surprise. "Most people do, baby."

"Yes—but look, Carl. No heel marks at all. And I thought she was flat-footed!"

"H'm." Carl was not interested, but BIM wondered. A curious thing, this was, that Jane, who wore those slattern, shapeless shoes should walk so lightly when she was barefooted. Was she one of those rare persons whose feet were too tender for the pressure of shoes? Odd . . .

But she forgot Jane's feet once she was in the water. She was a better swimmer than Carey, who soon tired. They spent a half hour basking in the sun and finally dressed and climbed up to the drive to find Ted Frost lounging there and watching.

SPLENDID NEWS FOR SUFFERERS

Would You See How Konjola Works? — Then Read These Grateful Endorsements

Read the grateful expression of Mr. William A. Jackson, 610 Spring Street, Little Rock, Ark. He says: "Stomach and liver troubles were making my life miserable. Constipation, bilious attacks and headaches were common. Konjola relieved all these conditions and I now eat heartily without distress, am free of constipation, and do not suffer from biliousness or headaches."

No less enthusiastic is Mrs. H. L. Watts, Route No. 2, Independence, Mo., who declares: "Stomach trouble bothered me for years. My kidneys were weak and night risings necessary. I had frightful headaches and felt tired and draggy all the time. Konjola soon put an end to all these troubles and although I now feel fine I shall continue the medicine because of its tonic properties."

MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The murder of Baroness von Wiese at Eagle's Nest, Emily Hardy's country home is discovered by Assistant Police Chief Walter Vance through a mysterious phone call. Emily's butler denies receiving a note from the Baroness. The shawl of Mary Frost, a guest, is found on the body. Her husband, Ted, was employed at the Baroness. Mary's statement of returning to Eagle's Nest, alone, for the shawl, at midnight, and seeing it on Laura Allan, is discounted by information that both she and Ted arrived home together at 4 A. M. Laura claims Mary was wearing the shawl in the garden. "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter and fiancée of Vance, sees the butler dancing and is puzzled. Later, she learns that the Baroness was Margaret Belle, noted dancer. A pair of slippers is found on the roof and a uniform, similar to the strip of linen discovered near the body, is unearthed in the cellar. "Bim" notes that the Baroness' maid wears large shoes though otherwise petite. "Bim" discovers the tire treads on Trent's car correspond with tracks found on an unused road near Eagle's Nest. Millicent Trent spies on her. Bob Trent resents a snub the Baroness had given his wife. Mary Frost is jealous of Ted. She warns "Bim" against giving up Vance for Carey, the New York reporter. While "Bim" is with Mary, Millicent calls. After she leaves, Ted misses his cigarette lighter. Emily's maid is frightened by strange noises emanating from the Baroness' dressing room. She divulges that Laura was in the garden with Ted the night of the murder. "Bim" plans to investigate the queer sounds. "Bim" sees Imogene spying upon Jane and William.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Bim giggled softly. "Walter's not the only one whose jealousy is in fact," her thoughts raced on, "there's also Mary and Ted—and probably hosts of others. Funny thing love is, it brings the greatest happiness there is and the greatest pain. But then everything is sort of funny . . ."

Imogene knocked at the door a bit later and Bim admitted her. The girl's nose was red as if she had been crying, but her eyes were angry and Bim did not feel really sorry for her. She seemed a capable young woman, quite able to take care of herself.

By leaning from the window of Imogene's room, Bim could see down upon the stone ledge along the top of the window in the dressing room below. The window itself was not visible, since the ledge formed a shelf above the pane; yet any sound in the room would come upward. Accordingly Bim set herself to listen, first making sure that Walter's pistol was safely in her handbag, even though she was sure she would have died rather than use it.

Miss Sherlock Holmes

There were, Bim considered as she waited, a certain number of things for her to accomplish at Eagle's Nest. First, of course, was the mystery of noise in the dressing-room to clear up. But also she must find a pair of feet to match the little silver slippers; she must find the magazine from which the page upon which the Baroness had written her note to the unknown had been torn—if that magazine still were in existence. She must try to find the other half of the note itself if that, also, had not been destroyed. And she must discover who it was that had burned a waft in the laundry stove downstairs . . .

Already she had made a study of feet and there was none which even conceivably would fit the silver slippers. When they were slim enough they were too long and when they were not too long they were much too wide. Even the feet of the men about the place had come in for her attention, with the result that only those of William had seemed worthy of note, though not, of course, because of the silver slippers. William's feet, Bim thought, were the most nearly perfect she ever had seen. They were slender, graceful, and seemed to move with a certain ease. Nothing, it appeared, was going to happen. Light came over the building went on the village toiled along. The noise that was something to her and a very gentle one, she sat up, instantly alert. She had thought that she had dreamed but for the fact that the surrusion somewhere, she located it almost at once as coming from the pipe which arose from the floor and went on up to the roof.

Leaning far out of the window, she thought she decided a dim glow along the sill of the window below, but could not be sure about this as the light, if there were any, might have been a reflection from the bulb over the kitchen door or even from the stars.

Then she heard the noise again—a shuffling tap it seemed now and presently it repeated itself and came regularly in rhythmic sequence.

A Tense Moment

Bim removed her shoes and stole downstairs. Outside the dressing room door she listened, ear to the keyhole. The sound was less distinct here and the keyhole was covered from the inside so she could not determine if the room were lighted.

With a swift catch of breath, Bim produced a key and fitted it into the lock. She tried to do this without noise, but her hand shook a little and there was a slight click. The door swung back; she stood in the dressing room.

Silence met her—silence and darkness. Groping in half panic, she found the button, pushed on the light. No one was in the room; no one at the door. The door to the boudoir stood open, though Bim remembered how carefully Jane had closed and locked it. She went on into that chamber, lighting it before she stepped inside. The key lay upon the lowboy as Jane had left it. But there was no one there; nothing was disturbed.

Yet Bim had a sense of presence; the feeling one sometimes experiences of coming into a place only a moment ago quitted by another. It is something less than odor, something less than warmth which attests to most recent occupancy, and it was here now in the dressing room as well as in the boudoir.

And the window of the boudoir stood wide open.

Bim rested her hands on the sill and looked out into the night—looked out into blankness.

Bim telephoned Walter in the morning and he drove up in the police car, still looking grim, and talked with her out on the drive. He urged her to leave Eagle's Nest and stated his intention of himself doing duty in Imogene's room—he was insistent and gruff about this—but she maintained with tears in her eyes that he had no right to interfere with what she was doing and so at last he said no more.

"I hope things are going right for you," she told him timidly, half afraid of his new grimness and his new reserve.

"Well enough," he nodded. "Ought to clean up in a day or so."

"Oh? Can't you tell me, Walter?"

"No." Just that. But it was like a door slammed between her and himself. She watched him go with a lonely, desperate feeling.

But toward noon Carl Carey came along and shook an accusatory fist at her. "Think I'd let a little thing like your disappearing keep me away? Not any, girl friend. Wherever you go, I'll find you. Only what's the cause?" She told a small, white lie. "No cause at all, big boy. I just wanted to be here where things are going on. Where do you go from here?"

"Wherever you go," he retorted promptly. "Just try to lose me!" He was lovable—a cheerful, companionable soul. Bim introduced him to Em Hardy who invited him to luncheon immediately she understood that he represented the greatest of Metropolitan newspapers. And it was when William was serving the soup that Bim first felt something electric in the air, something which seemed to emanate from Carey himself. What that thing was she in no wise could have explained; it was intangible as a thought and yet it set her nerves on edge and subdued some what even Em's hilarity. William felt it, she fancied, for he seemed hurried and uncomfortable and made his trips into the dining room as brief as possible.

It was when he was obliged to spend some time moving about the table that Carey began to talk in reminiscent way, sitting back with his eyes half closed.

"Go in for the theatre much?" he enquired of Em. "Not what it used to be in days when musical comedy was young. Remember the 'Wizard of Oz'? And 'The Red Mill'? He hummed softly a few strains from song hits of those incomparable productions. "And," he continued, "The Broadway Belle?"

"The Broadway Belle," Em stated positively, "was the best of them all!"

"Sure was," Carey agreed. "Sweet lines. Swell music. Swell dance numbers."

Bim did not remember the "Broadway Belle," and said so. Carey shook his head, laughing. "Certainly you don't, baby. It's only our old campaigners that go that far back." He added, surprisingly, "Eh, William?"

"Sir?" Bim saw that the butler's face was as red as his hair and she felt a sense of outrage. But Carey merely laughed again carrying it off in a way that seemed to amuse Em.

Bim scolded afterward. "This isn't Greenwich Village, Carl Carey, in case you didn't know." "And one keeps the hands in their places—that is, baby? Sure I get you. But there was a reason—in case YOU didn't know."

A light broke on Bim but she was puzzled. "Well, aren't you going to tell me what it is?"

Useless Questioning

"Tomorrow, maybe," he promised. "If it turns out." Listen, has the Banner any kind of a morgue? No? Then I'll have to go down to the city tonight; look up the dope. This, honey child, probably is going to be good."

She could get nothing more out of him and when he suggested that they go for a swim she agreed willingly enough.

As they descended the steep path to the beach they saw a tall, slender woman emerge from the water and go swinging along with a light step to the bathhouse. She dressed quickly for they had reached the bottom of the hill as she met them and passed the time of day in her pleasant but aloofly dignified way—the way of the maid Jane.

Bim stood looking after her as she climbed the path, plodding flat-footedly up the stones. And as she neared the bathhouse she peered at the prints the maid's feet had left on the sand—shin, little depressions with five fainter ones at each curved edge.

"She was on the balls of her feet," Bim remarked in surprise. "Most people do, baby."

"Yes—but look, Carl. No heel marks at all. And I thought she was flat-footed!"

"H'm." Carl was not interested, but Bim wondered. A curious thing, this, that Jane, who wore those slattern, shapeless shoes should walk so lightly when she was barefooted. Was she one of those rare persons whose feet were too tender for the pressure of shoes? Odd.

But she forgot Jane's feet once she was in the water. She was a better swimmer than Carey, who soon tired. They spent a half hour basking in the sun and finally dressed and climbed up to the drive to find Ted Frost lounging there and watching.

SPLENDID NEWS FOR SUFFERERS

Would You See How Konjola Works?—Then Read These Grateful Endorsements

Read the grateful expression of Mr. William A. Jackson, 610 Spring Street, Little Rock, Ark. He says: "Stomach and liver troubles were making my life miserable. Constipation, bilious attacks and headaches were common. Konjola relieved all these conditions and I now eat heartily without distress, am free of constipation, and do not suffer from biliousness or headaches."

No less enthusiastic is Mrs. H. L. Watts, Route No. 2, Independence, Mo., who declares: "Stomach troubles bothered me for years. My kidneys were weak and night risings necessary. I had frightful headaches and felt tired and draggy all the time. Konjola soon put an end to all these troubles and although I now feel fine I shall continue the medicine because of its tonic properties."
